Anthea Macdonald
Anthea started Scottish Country Dancing about seventeen years ago in a class offered at Caltech in Pasadena. She claims her teacher, Doug Macdonald, laughed at her efforts, but not to be deterred, she determined she would show him up! They were married two years later and recently celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary with a tea dance at Caltech.

Delight in the dance form and love of the music of SCD encouraged Anthea to pursue her Teacher's Certificate, which she obtained in the summer of 2008, through TAC. She teaches two weekly classes, enjoys devising dances, and has taught at various workshops since receiving her certificate.

In her spare time she tends the rose garden she and Doug planted at their home in Southern California, with the enthusiastic help of their dog Bear, amid an assortment of somewhat doubtful cats.

Last chance to dance before the sun goes away.⁽¹⁾
